Jean Monnet Multilateral Research Groups

[JM 7]

Within the priorities set in the general call for proposals, the following information can be used

Objectives and description of the action
Jean Monnet multilateral research groups must involve a partnership between at least three Jean Monnet Chairs from at least three different higher education institutions in three different countries. Multilateral research groups may involve, as partners, associations that bring together professors and researchers specialising in European integration studies. Multilateral research groups must lead to an integrated academic network involving joint research and the organisation of joint seminars, debates and meetings. The activities of the multilateral research groups must lead to the production of a major academic publication by the end of the project. Multilateral research groups may also include activities for the dissemination of results, notably using multimedia and meetings with civil society. Priority will be given to applications - aiming at the production of research results that cannot be achieved through research activities within a national framework; - involving academic activities which exploit multi-disciplinary resources; - demonstrating openness to civil society.The higher education institution of the coordinating Jean Monnet Chair is in charge of submitting the application and of signing the grant agreement. A Jean Monnet Chair may be coordinator of only one Jean Monnet Multilateral Research Group at one time.
Who can benefit
